Title	ANALISIS HUBUNGAN KONFLIK PERAN TERHADAP KONFLIK PEKERJAAN- KELUARGA MELALUI PEMEDIASI KEPUASAAN KERJA
Journal Section	Articles
Abstract	The purpose of this study is to analyse the influence mediated of the job satisfaction on the relationship between role conflict and work-family conflict. The sample of this study was 109 production employees of PT. Ungaran Indah Busana, Semarang. The sampling technique used in this study was non-probability sampling technique with purposive sampling method. The validity test of the instrument used in this study was Pearson Product Moment Correlation, while the reliability test used was Cronbach Alpha (> 0.6). Method of data collection was the questionnaire. The data was analysed by descriptive analysis percentage, multiple regression analysis, partial test (t test), path analysis and Sobel Test using SPSS 21. The results show that job satisfaction has a significant influence on the conflict and the role of work-family conflict, but it does not mediate them. This study shows that the high employee job satisfaction is not necessarily able to prevent and avoid the role conflict and the work-family conflict. Furthermore, the company is expected to be able not only to create job satisfaction of employees, but also to foster organizational commitment so that employees can survive and avoid conflict.
